

Important Winter Storm Announcement

Update: January 9, 2017

This winter's snow accumulation is not business as usual, and we need the communities help now in providing the best street maintenance and public safety service possible. We are expecting a lot more snow in the next couple of days.

The City of Sisters is asking for residents and business owner's to help in protecting themselves and their neighbors by parking vehicles off the street whenever possible to allow plow drivers to clear streets as wide as possible not only for you but also for emergency vehicles. *Please do not put garbage cans out until the morning of collection so that plows can operate as efficiently as possible during the night time hours.

Also: When the City is plowing these significant record levels of snow, the snow may end up as a berm across your driveway, or covering a sidewalk or a fire hydrant. We apologize for the inconvenience this may cause. Unfortunately this is unavoidable due to the volume of snow accumulations we are experiencing at this time. We do not have the resources to remove driveway berms or clear sidewalks. This is the responsibility of residents.

HAZARDOUS WINTER CONDITIONS

Winter Storm in effect. The National Weather Service has issued a Winter Storm Warning for Sisters Oregon which is in effect from tonight through Wednesday at 4 am. Significant snow accumulations (12-20 inches) is expected area-wide. Please check the latest forecast and stay alert at www.noaa.gov
