Mr. Martin,

I am Extremely concerned about yet another development in Sisters, this being planned for the beautiful drive down 242. There is so little left of the natural environment that gives its beauty to Sisters. The area that is being built, that was to have been housing for Laird employees, has already disturbed the look and feel of the town without the homes being built as yet. If there had been enough trees left to hide this, maybe it would not have had an impact. What are we doing to allow another developer who will gain revenue and leave the area with their riches. Their only interest is to build and leave? Who is Woodhill Homes? What have they or would they do for our community. Have they studied the effects or do they care. What are SF homes? I moved here to have the small town life that Sisters offered. Progress is important, but to what end? When does it stop? I supported the Sisters community for over 10 years by vacationing here every year before making my decision to live here. My family owned property in the Sisters area.

The views from the old Patterson ranch are all that is left for us to see without the further disturbance of yet another housing development that ruins the look of the area. I am not entirely opposed to some development as I have a Hayden home behind the hotel. The difference is you can't see it from the main road and is not in an area like that of the drive down 242.

What studies has the city performed to make a decision to approve this? How many homes are being proposed at what cost? What will they look like? Are they Western like that in our cute town? Are we looking to be another Bend? Has this gone for a vote of any kind? I see deer roaming this area with their offspring. How will this impact wildlife, parking, traffic. Most of all, I find peace as a get away from the business of life when I go to this area. I park and look at the mountains like so many do and feel the beauty and awesome majesty of what we love about living here. Does the city ever look at the number of people who park here to rest, relax over a conversation, have a bite to eat and enjoy the beauty? PLEASE DO NOT ALLOW THIS TO HAPPEN.
